Look and be Youthful as long as you can. TURKISH LIFE TABLETS will cause the blood to how through your velue as in youth; will impart to the old New Life and Yigor; the present of the life and Yigor; the life the complex of the life the life and you out organs begin to show new life, the complex four becomes clear as an infants, the eyes sparkle in brilliancy, and once more you are what nature intended you to be.

TURKISH LIFE TABLETS is a brain and merre food, for an evertaced brain often gives rise to many diseases of the nerves, and works are the machine through the entire system, calculable mischief through the entire system, MERCHANTS, HANKERS, CLERGY MEN, PHY SIGLANS, NEWSPAPER MEN, DRUGISTS, and all those who require clear and active brains and not fell to approclate the unequality virtues There is a screw loose in Turkey. Some plot or other has been discovered, and the consequences have been seen in wholesale measures of punishment against the press. The Times has been against the press. The Times has been three times confiscated within a month, and the Daily Chronicle has been interdicted altogether. The fact appears to be that a serious palace conspiracy for deposing the Sultan was detected in the very nick of time. The Sultan was so unmerved by the discovery that he sent for Sir William White and asked for his advice. Sir William answered that the Sultan could only live in safety if he put down his harem, not as a question of morals but as a matter of policy, seeing that it was impossible to exercise supervision over an establishment of 300 ladies. The Sultan, who is practically a monogamist, would be glad enough to get rid of his 290 brevet spouses, but the customs of his dynasty forbid him to do this. On his birthday and on twenty other days in the year he invariably receives from his mother the present of a beautiful slave, and this young lady has forthwith to be transferred to his establishment in the capacity of haren dame, with a household of invariably receives from his mother the present of a beautiful slave, and this young lady has forthwith to be transferred to his establishment in the capacity of harem dame, with a household of her own, consisting of at least four eunuchs and six female servants—to say nothing of horses, carriages and grooms. Multiply the number of these households by 300, and it ceases to be aston-lishing that the expenditure of the Sulton's Civil List should amount to 4,000,000 pounds a year. A large item in this sum represents the dowers which the Sultan pays his slaves when he marries them. To favorite officials, about 100 girls are married from the Palace yearly, and each of them is entitled to receive 10,000 pounds. Unfortunately, the bridgeroom who takes a wife from the Sultan's hands must, at his earliest convenience, make a present of a slave to keep the staff of the Imperial Seraglio up to its proper figure. The Sultan loathes the whole thing, but what is he to do? There are too many vested interests engaged in keeping the Imperial harem supplied with wives, and if the Sultan were to cashier his entire female establishment he would certainly be deposed or murdered. Sir William White is said to have advised his Majesty to reduce his establishment by not filling up the vacancies, but this is not easy, seeing that every Cabinet Minister and Pacha of note looks to passing his daughter through the Sultan's harem as a simple means of securing her a marriage portion, with the title of Valide, which may be construed as Princess.

The man who would certainly be deposed is his brother, Rechad Pacha. This Rechad is virtually a prisoner in Yildiz Klosk, for he cannot go outside the garden gates without leave, and he never gets permission to take a walk or drive alone. He must always be surrounded by guards and ennuchs. Rechad, however, is a man of modern ideas, and lately he fell in love with an English girk whom he met boating on the Bosphorus, and to whom he proposed marriage after after a week's acquaintanceship. The Sultan, h

Congressman Russell, of Massachusetts, the sheep raising advocate of free wool and powerful campaigner for tariff reform, was urged by his former constituents to submit to a reception in recognition of his personal virtues and public services. He replied thus modestly in behalf of himself and wife: "We are deeply sensible of the honor that is offered us and touched by the kindness and good will of our neighbors. It is pleasant amid the animosities of political life and the reckless brutaities of a part of the press to have this cordial expression of friendly feeling, and we are very grateful for it, but we do not feel that we can accept any public manifestations of regard. The letter, so unanimously signed, is a sufficient proof of good will and welcome and has added another tie to the many that endear our friends and our home."

A Good story About Forrest.
Forrest on one occasion was rehearsing a tragedy and spoke to one of the "warriors" who entered in a slouching, undignified manner:
"Don't come on like that," he said, in a digusted tone, "but like this"—and, stepping into the wings, he showed him an impressive entrance.
"But, Mr. Forrest," said the man, "if I could come on like you do you think I would be working for $$ a week?"

Mr. Wiman continued: "I would like to be more closely interested in base ball than what I am, but I cannot possibly find time to carry out my desires. Of course you know about my experience with the old Metropolitan Club. I have nothing to complain of on that score. I feel satisfied that the gospel of relaxation is one of the finest gospels that can be preached to humanity, and anything that will attract and pleasurably divert the attention of a man who is weary and worn out by husiness is a boon. that will attract and pleasurably divert the attention of a man who is weary and worn out by business is a boon. A game of base ball will do this; the points and general features are so beautiful and simple that no mental exertion is needed to understand them, and we can become so interested in the contest that for the nonce every care and anxiety is forgotten. I am a very busy man. I rise every morning at 40 clock, and as a rule I feel weary about three in the afternoon. Then it is that about an hour and fifty minutes at a ball game comes to me as one of the greatest blessings of my life. We should all admire the game."
